CLIFF-GRADS Project:

Evaluating innovative strategies for ruminant methane (CH<sub>4</sub>) abatement.

Home University and PhD:

São Paulo State University; Animal Science.

Host Institute and Supervisor:

Queen's University, UK; Dr. Sharon Huws.

About me:

I am open to new experiences in ruminal microbiology and to learn new methodologies that can improve my career and my personal skills. I enjoy experiencing and interacting with other cultures and I feel lucky to work in a dynamic international team. I am responsible, dedicated and I love to talk. My favourite things to do in my spare time are reading books, learning about astronomy, and doing outdoor activities.
